When Is It Time to Consider In-Home Private Duty Care?

As we age or endure health challenges, managing what once were simple tasks can become overwhelming, even impossible. The physical and psychological impact these changes present can cause you and your loved ones undue stress. Sometimes the emotional changes can seem intolerable.

Cypress Home Care's fully-trained, highly-qualified, and compassionate staff understands the magnitude of these challenges. No matter where you or your loved ones reside, it may be time to consider in-home care if:

- Managing daily activities become cumbersome, painful, time-consuming, or even dangerous.
- Feelings of isolation and loneliness set in.
- There is an inability to manage certain activities without assistance.
- Assistance with Range of Motion exercises if needed.

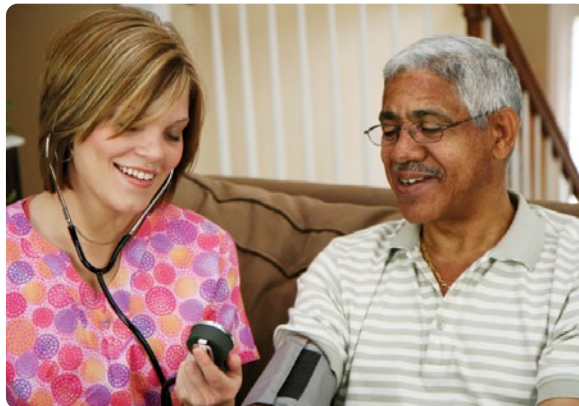

Registered with the Tri-County Office on Aging in Mid-Michigan as a premier in-home care provider in Greater Lansing, Cypress Home Care helps your loved ones live a more independent, dignified, and happier life.
